Exploring with Microscopes

We invite your homeschool family to our homeschool days this fall.

All About Birds: Students will learn about the complex biology of birds, bird behavior and conservation. This will include a dissection of a pigeon.

Math of Nature: Students will explore several mathematical concepts in nature from common ratios, growth patterns, how things like the Fibonacci sequence and Golden Ratio.

Exploring with Microscopes: Students will practice using a variety of microscopes to explore microscopic organisms.

- Each field trip is open to up to 40 participants.
- Program fee is $5 per child. Parents may drop kids off or participate with the students. There is no charge for parents.
- Target age range for the activities is ages 10-14. We have specifically focused on skills and objectives to serve older elementary and middle school students this fall.
- Online registration is required at <http://register.ccparkandrec.com>.
