Construction Updates

Gas Department in the Area

This week, the City's gas department was in the area working on gas lines on the northeast corner of Gollihar Road and Ayers Street. The work is expected to continue for the next few days.

Additionally, the contractor, with help from City staff, began gathering information on Ayers Street businesses. The contractor plans to produce additional signage to help guide motorists to individual businesses along the construction path.

All work is weather permitting.

Weekly Construction Survival Tip

Embrace the Theme!

Road construction can cause stress for any business owner but it's all about how you approach the situation that will allow for your business to thrive. Use construction time to have a little fun by creating advertising campaigns around the construction theme. Hang up caution tape around a SALE sign and say something like "Caution: Prices Falling" or put a construction hard hat on store mannequin to draw attention to your latest fashion. If you are feeling extra festive put up directional signs in your store leading straight to your best merchandise. Don't let construction stress you out! Embrace the theme and bulldoze right over the competition.

Featured Business

Print Shop Supports Ayers Street Pedestrian Improvements

Since its opening in February 2019, Koastal Kopies has been providing the Corpus Christi community with a variety of printing service needs.

Koastal Kopies is located on 4701 Ayers Street, Suite 401, and managed by Jamie Gomez. The print shop is known for creating t-shirts, invitations, banners, business cards, aluminum signs, and more.

Gomez likes the business spot because it's easy for clients to find since it's centrally located. She is eager to see a safer path with new sidewalks and lighting to help pedestrians get from one place to another.
